While strolling through the park one day,

In the merry, merry month of May,

He was taken by surprise by a pair of roguish eyes,

In a moment his poor heart was stole away.

A smile was all she gave to him,

Of course she was as happy as can be,

He immediately raised his hat,

And finally she remarked,

He never will forget that lovely afternoon,

He met her at the fountain in the park.